Course Description:

This course enables you to integrate classroom learning into an ethical practice while working with individuals, families or groups in the community. You will receive peer and professional support in a collaborative learning process. During class time, both you and I will give and receive constructive clinical feedback to one another regarding fieldwork and build upon your existing social work skills and knowledge. This class is designed to prepare you for a firm foundation upon which to begin your social work practice in a safe & instructional environment with agency supervisors.

Each student intern enrolled in this class will work in a practicum in a field placement for 32 to 33 average hours per week for a total of 400 hours during the Fall 21 academic semester. However, you have to do 400 hours at the minimum in your practicum due to the COVID-19 pandemic. Students are assigned a field instructor who is a BSW/MSW/LCSW for the purpose of education, supervision and evaluation. You and I will meet with your field instructor two times this semester at your assigned field placements or virtually.

Attendance

Your attendance in class is required and necessary for us all to share our learning experiences together and participate in a largely discussion-based format of class. If you are going to be late or absent, contact Professor Parrish at 540-767-6173 if you are notifying on the day of absence or tardiness and you can also email.

You must attend your field placements regularly and arrive promptly according to a schedule mutually agreed upon by you and your field instructor. If you are unable to attend your field placement, it is expected that you will notify your field instructor immediately. You will also notify your class instructor if you miss any time at your placement or miss your start date.

Participation:

Seminars involve more student directed participation than is commonly found in other classroom experiences. This includes a readiness to actively share what you are learning in your field placement, as well as your feelings, concerns, dilemmas (staff and client-related), and successes the experience raises for you as a practicing social worker. Further, it requires a willingness to take risks in practicing skill building, sharing your academic knowledge and professional values among fellow students. I expect you to listen to feedback carefully and incorporate this into your continuing professional development. Please come to class ready to participate, listen and learn.

Throughout the semester, I encourage you to revisit your learning goals and educational needs. If you feel as though your goals are not being met, it is your responsibility to seek the necessary support and supervision to help you make your field learning as successful as possible. Your ability to work independently and successfully will surely lead to your readiness to enter the field of social work upon graduation.

Note: Use of cell phones in any capacity will not be tolerated during the class. Your cell phone will be confiscated if you are seen using it and held by the instructor until the end of the class.

Learning Styles:

I am cognizant of our varying learning styles and abilities and will do my best to accommodate this in class. However, if you have a documented learning disability and need additional accommodations in learning, please let me know at the beginning of the semester so that I can best meet your needs and contact Academic Resource Center or Dr. Carey Usher. Special accommodations, as suggested by MBU Disability Services, are not retroactive.

Please note that timely participation in the class and completion of the assignments will allow for the most optimal learning experience. Therefore, it is my expectation that assignments, reading and written, will be completed by their due dates. If assignments are late, a penalty of a letter grade will be deducted for each additional day and assignments submitted after five days late will not be accepted. You are strongly encouraged to communicate with me in advance of a due date if you are having difficulty completing an assignment. Classes are mandatory due to the number of assignments that have to be completed during the semester unless illness or medical issues interfere with coming to class.

Resources:

Computer Helpdesk: help@marybaldwin.edu for IT problems with blackboard, etc.
Academic Resource Center 540-887-7250 or email vjoczik@marybaldwin.edu

Note: Regarding APA-style Format, you are encouraged to utilize the online resources through Grafton Library, and/or the following additional resources:

Note: Proper citation of others' works is not only required; failure to do so is considered theft and grounds for an Honor Code violation. In most instances, the first incidence of such failure to properly cite and/or use a reference list will require that the assignment be revised making corrections as necessary. Failure to redo the assignment will result in "0" points for the assignment. An additional incident will result in a referral for investigation of an Honor Code violation.

Assignments:

Professional Behavior Standards/Expectations:

Find three articles dealing with areas of interest in your placement or pertaining to human rights and bring them to the 1st class to discuss with your classmates. Upload your paragraph about the first article on blackboard at the end of the first week. You will also discuss it again in your first class.

Process Recordings:

Students will be required to complete a minimum of three process recordings. See Class Schedule for due dates. (Completion of this assignment will be included in your Professional Behavior in the Class/Class Participation grade.)

Group Facilitation:

Students will be expected to research a 15 minute group exercise and facilitate the group exercise with another student or alone. Please begin researching the group before the first class in order to inform professor of your choice at the 1st class meeting.

Learning Contract:

Learning Contracts are documents that enable you to create personal and professional goals that you want to achieve during your field placement. It provides you with an opportunity to have control over your own learning opportunities. It should be constantly revisited by you and your supervisor during the semester and remain a primary focus during supervision.

Be creative. Ask your supervisor for ideas. Take a risk and challenge yourself and your learning by trying something that makes you uncomfortable. Find a way to bring a skill you have to your placement and share your knowledge with co-workers. Think about both your professional and personal goals. Be specific. Think: What do I most want to learn while I am here? How will I learn the most from this social service agency? What areas of service are most interesting to me? How might I best offer my skills and service to this agency?

Additional information about this assignment can be found in your Field Instruction Manual.

Organizational Assessment:

You will be asked to write an assessment of your agency following the guidelines outlined in the Field Work Manual. This paper will detail the agency's history, goals, structure, administrative hierarchy, agency-government relationships, and a review of the overall availability of agency to families. Further information regarding this assignment can be found in your Field Manual.

Oral Process Recording/Social Work Assessment:

Students will be expected to present a case study from their field work experience incorporating information from process recordings. Each student will have 15 minutes for this presentation and will be graded on the skills outlined in the attached rubric. Additional information about this assignment is included in the Field Manual.

Grading:

Final Evaluations

Final time sheets are due for seniors final evaluations

All assignments are due on day indicated in the syllabus. If they are late, there will be a drop by one letter grade for each day late unless medical excuse is given by due date. Please maintain contact with professor if there are any problems that would interfere with assignments and class work.

Honor Code: For all assignments & group presentations, students are allowed to use internet sites and collaboration with other students/professionals are allowed as long as the ideas are your own and every student will agree to up hold the integrity of the honor code and reframe from plagiarism by citing all sources in all of the homework assignments.

*Should I or other students witness Honor code infractions, a report will be sent to the honor council chairwoman by email or filing an incident report. If the honor code offense is related to a course assignment, the assignment will not receive a grade until the matter is resolved by the Honor Council.

*Every assignment, evaluation, and assessment is located in the Field Manual located on the Website under Social Work Practicum and field. Everything that you need is located in this Manual.
